

BELIEVING

Oh for the chance to start over
They killed you, we cried, with our sorrow
You died for the things you believed in
A world full of peace, love and freedom

CH All through the night
And all through your life
You never did give in
Stop believin'

The rights of your sisters and brothers
You lived for them, died in their honour
Your mountain's still there for the climbing
Your dream's still alive, still shining

CH

M8 Where are you now?
Are you still watching as we crawl?
How far away, how many years?
We won't forget you ever, Martin Luther King
Slain for your colour and your dream

You left us your wisdom and courage
The strength of your faith, we cherish
The power of your voice, still echoes
Your words grace the years to follow

CH

M8

© Luke Johnson and Michelle Morgan, 1989